

CALL FOR IMPACT ASSESSMENT

Temwa: When communities come together

Choosing your dissertation topic? Temwa is welcoming applicants to carry out an impact assessment of education, health or WASH programmes in Northern Malawi.

Temwa means 'love, within a community,' in Tumbuka. We are a Bristol based charity committed to empowering remote African communities to end poverty and transform their own futures.

Our community driven approach - Temwa draws on 17 years of working with remote communities in Malawi to understand that many of the challenges faced by poor rural communities are linked and mutually reinforcing. To make a lasting change, we partner with the communities and strengthen local structures to tackle the various causes of poverty simultaneously, not just symptoms.

We are looking for a student to carry out an impact assessment of our literacy education, HIV/AIDS or WASH project (exact scope to be agreed with the selected student) as part of your Master's or Bachelor's dissertation. This is a great opportunity to learn about international development programming and evidencing the impact of work by small NGOs in a developing country.

You will be expected to travel to Malawi to carry out field work. The ideal candidate:

- Quantitative and qualitative research design and data analysis skills
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Passion for international development/Interest in health and/or education
- Ability to adapt to different cultural environments

This is a self-funded position and you are expected to cover your own flights, visa, accommodation and day-to-day living costs, but the cost of living in Malawi is relatively low. Temwa will provide you:

- Training in the UK before travel to Malawi
- Travel arrangements to villages
- Support in research design and field work (incl. translation)
- Ongoing guidance and support by dedicated contact points in the UK and Malawi
